THE INTRODUCTION

- In general, by civil services in India, we mean recruitment through Civil Services Examination conducted by the UPSC/SPSC every year.
- This includes IAS, IPS, IRS, IFS and others.
- The top rankers generally get selected for IAS, IPS & IFS.
- They serve in different capacity from DM/SP to Secretary/Chief Secretary and Cabinet Secretary.

THE BEGINNING OF CIVIL SERVICES IN INDIA

- In 1793 Lord Cornwallis established civil services in India, hence he is known as the father of the British Indian civil services.
- In 1853 for the first time merit system was introduced on the recommendations of Macaulay Committee.
- Civil services came to be characterized as the “steel frame” by Lloyd George of which ICS as most popular service.

THE ROLE OF CIVIL SERVICES IN BRITISH INDIA

- It played three main roles
 - Law and order administration
 - Revenue administration
 - Judicial administration
- Purpose
 - It was to strengthen and consolidate the British administration in India
 - Establish a strong empire

THE CIVIL SERVICES POST INDEPENDENCE

- The legacy of the British India civil services was continued
- IAS replaced ICS
- UPSC/SPSC were established for recruitment
- CSE came to be the main examination for recruiting IAS/IPS
- There are All India Services, Central Civil Services and State Civil Services

THE ROLE OF CIVIL SERVICES POST-INDEPENDENCE

1. Maintaining Law and Order, security, unity and integrity
2. Nation-building, brotherhood and nationhood
3. Welfare and social justice
4. Socio-economic transformation
5. Strengthening the foundation of democracy
6. Promoting citizen-centric administration

SIGNIFICANCE OF CIVIL SERVICES

- Sardar Patel remarked in 1947, “ if we want to have united India, we must have All India Services”.
- He also remarked civil services as the “steel frame” of India.
- It is one of the main pillar of India democracy
- It works selflessly for public-causes and rises to challenging occasions like presently COVID-19.

CONCLUSION

- Civil services India still enjoy a very good appeal in society.
- IAS is considered as the most prestigious service in terms of power, status, aura and popularity.
- Civil services provide opportunity to young talented candidates to fulfill their dream as service to nation
- Civil services provide opportunity to become an entrepreneur at the very young age which in corporate sector is given at 40/50 years of age.
